ENEL X FORGES AN AGREEMENT WITH MEG FOR THE ACQUISITION OF CITYPOSTE PAYMENT AND STRENGTHENS ITS PRESENCE IN THE PAYMENT SERVICES MARKET

- Thanks to this operation, Enel X increases contact channels with its customers and gains access to the network of approximately 850 CPP sales points throughout Italy
- The acquisition will enable Enel X to manage up to 20 million transactions a year, from bills to various payments to public administrations through the pagoPA hub

Rome, December 3rd, 2020 – Enel X has sealed a deal with Mail Express Group (MEG) to acquire – subject to authorization from Banca d'Italia – a 100% stake in the share capital of CityPoste Payment (CPP), Italian fintech company that offers consumers broad access to payment services, on both physical and digital channels, and enables them to make numerous types of transactions in favour of private entities and public administrations.

With this agreement, Enel X will be able to count on a network of about 850 physical CPP sales points all over Italy, joining the approximately 6,000 served by Paytipper, thus increasing new customer acquisition methods and promotional channels for its products and services.

The partnership will enable Enel X to manage up to 20 million transactions a year, from bills to various payments to public administrations through the pagoPA hub.

“With the purchase of CPP, Enel X strengthens its presence in the country, offering a payment service that complements Enel X Pay’s full digital service,” said Francesco Venturini, CEO of Enel X. “A choice that responds to multi-channel logic, to more effectively meet the needs of a vast group of customers, from young and older generations.”

“Mail Express Group is a financial and real estate group holding company operating in various commercial sectors, ranging from the postal market (the subsidiary Mail Express Poste Private was the first private Italian operator, which today boasts a significant presence on the domestic market), to publishing, logistics services, financial services, etc.,” explains Bachisio Ledda, Sole Director and majority shareholder of Mail Express Group S.r.l., absolute majority shareholder of CPP. “We are very pleased about this operation. In fact, we are sure that by joining Enel Group, CPP will be better able to express its potential, making an important contribution towards the pursuit of strategic goals.”

“This deal is placed within an increasingly fast and competitive economic context marked by major growth in the volume of digital payments,” adds Fernando Marsilii, Chief Executive Officer of CPP, assisted by advisors of PwC. “This factor increasingly drives the search for economies of scale also through the strengthening of one’s market share.”

With this acquisition, Enel X continues with its strategy to increase its presence in the world of financial services, a position already consolidated thanks to numerous strategic operations made over the past two years, including:

- a license from Italy's Electronic Money Institution granted to the subsidiary Enel X Financial Services in December 2018, which, thanks also to agreements with technological partners Tink and Sia, made the market launch possible, in October 2020, of Enel X Pay, the Group's first Italian digital financial product;
- the acquisition of a majority stake in the payment institute PayTipper S.p.A.
